

Although broadband over power lines has great commercial appeal, it is a very bad idea. Based on comments I've heard from European hams this approach effectively destroys the HF bands for all but those who live off the power grid in the hinterlands. The CB radio service has been a problem for years. Please don't create a true disaster.